The perfect partnership.

Welser Profile is the leading manufacturer of high quality roll-formed steel and non-ferrous metal sections, tubes and fully-fledged profile systems for cab frames, including A, B and C-posts.

Supported by mutual trust & a shared understanding, our long-standing partnership with Welser Profile has always been characterised by a very solution-orientated approach. Welser's experts are committed to optimising every detail, and we are always inspired by the quality of the profiles, especially the surface finish.

Welser specialises in producing customer & application specific components. They are designed to fulfil the form, function, logistical and service requirements of our customers. In addition, for those preferring not to design a specific profile, Welser is also able to offer a wide range of generic cross-sections to select from.

Our inner strength is the value we add.

Our capabilities:

- Decades of experience in cab construction and in a range of related fields
- High level of product development expertise
- Comprehensive range of the latest production capabilities, including in-house tool-making
- Vast array of downstream processing options, such as bending, laser cutting and sawing

Components for vehicles in

- Construction
- Materials handling
- Agriculture

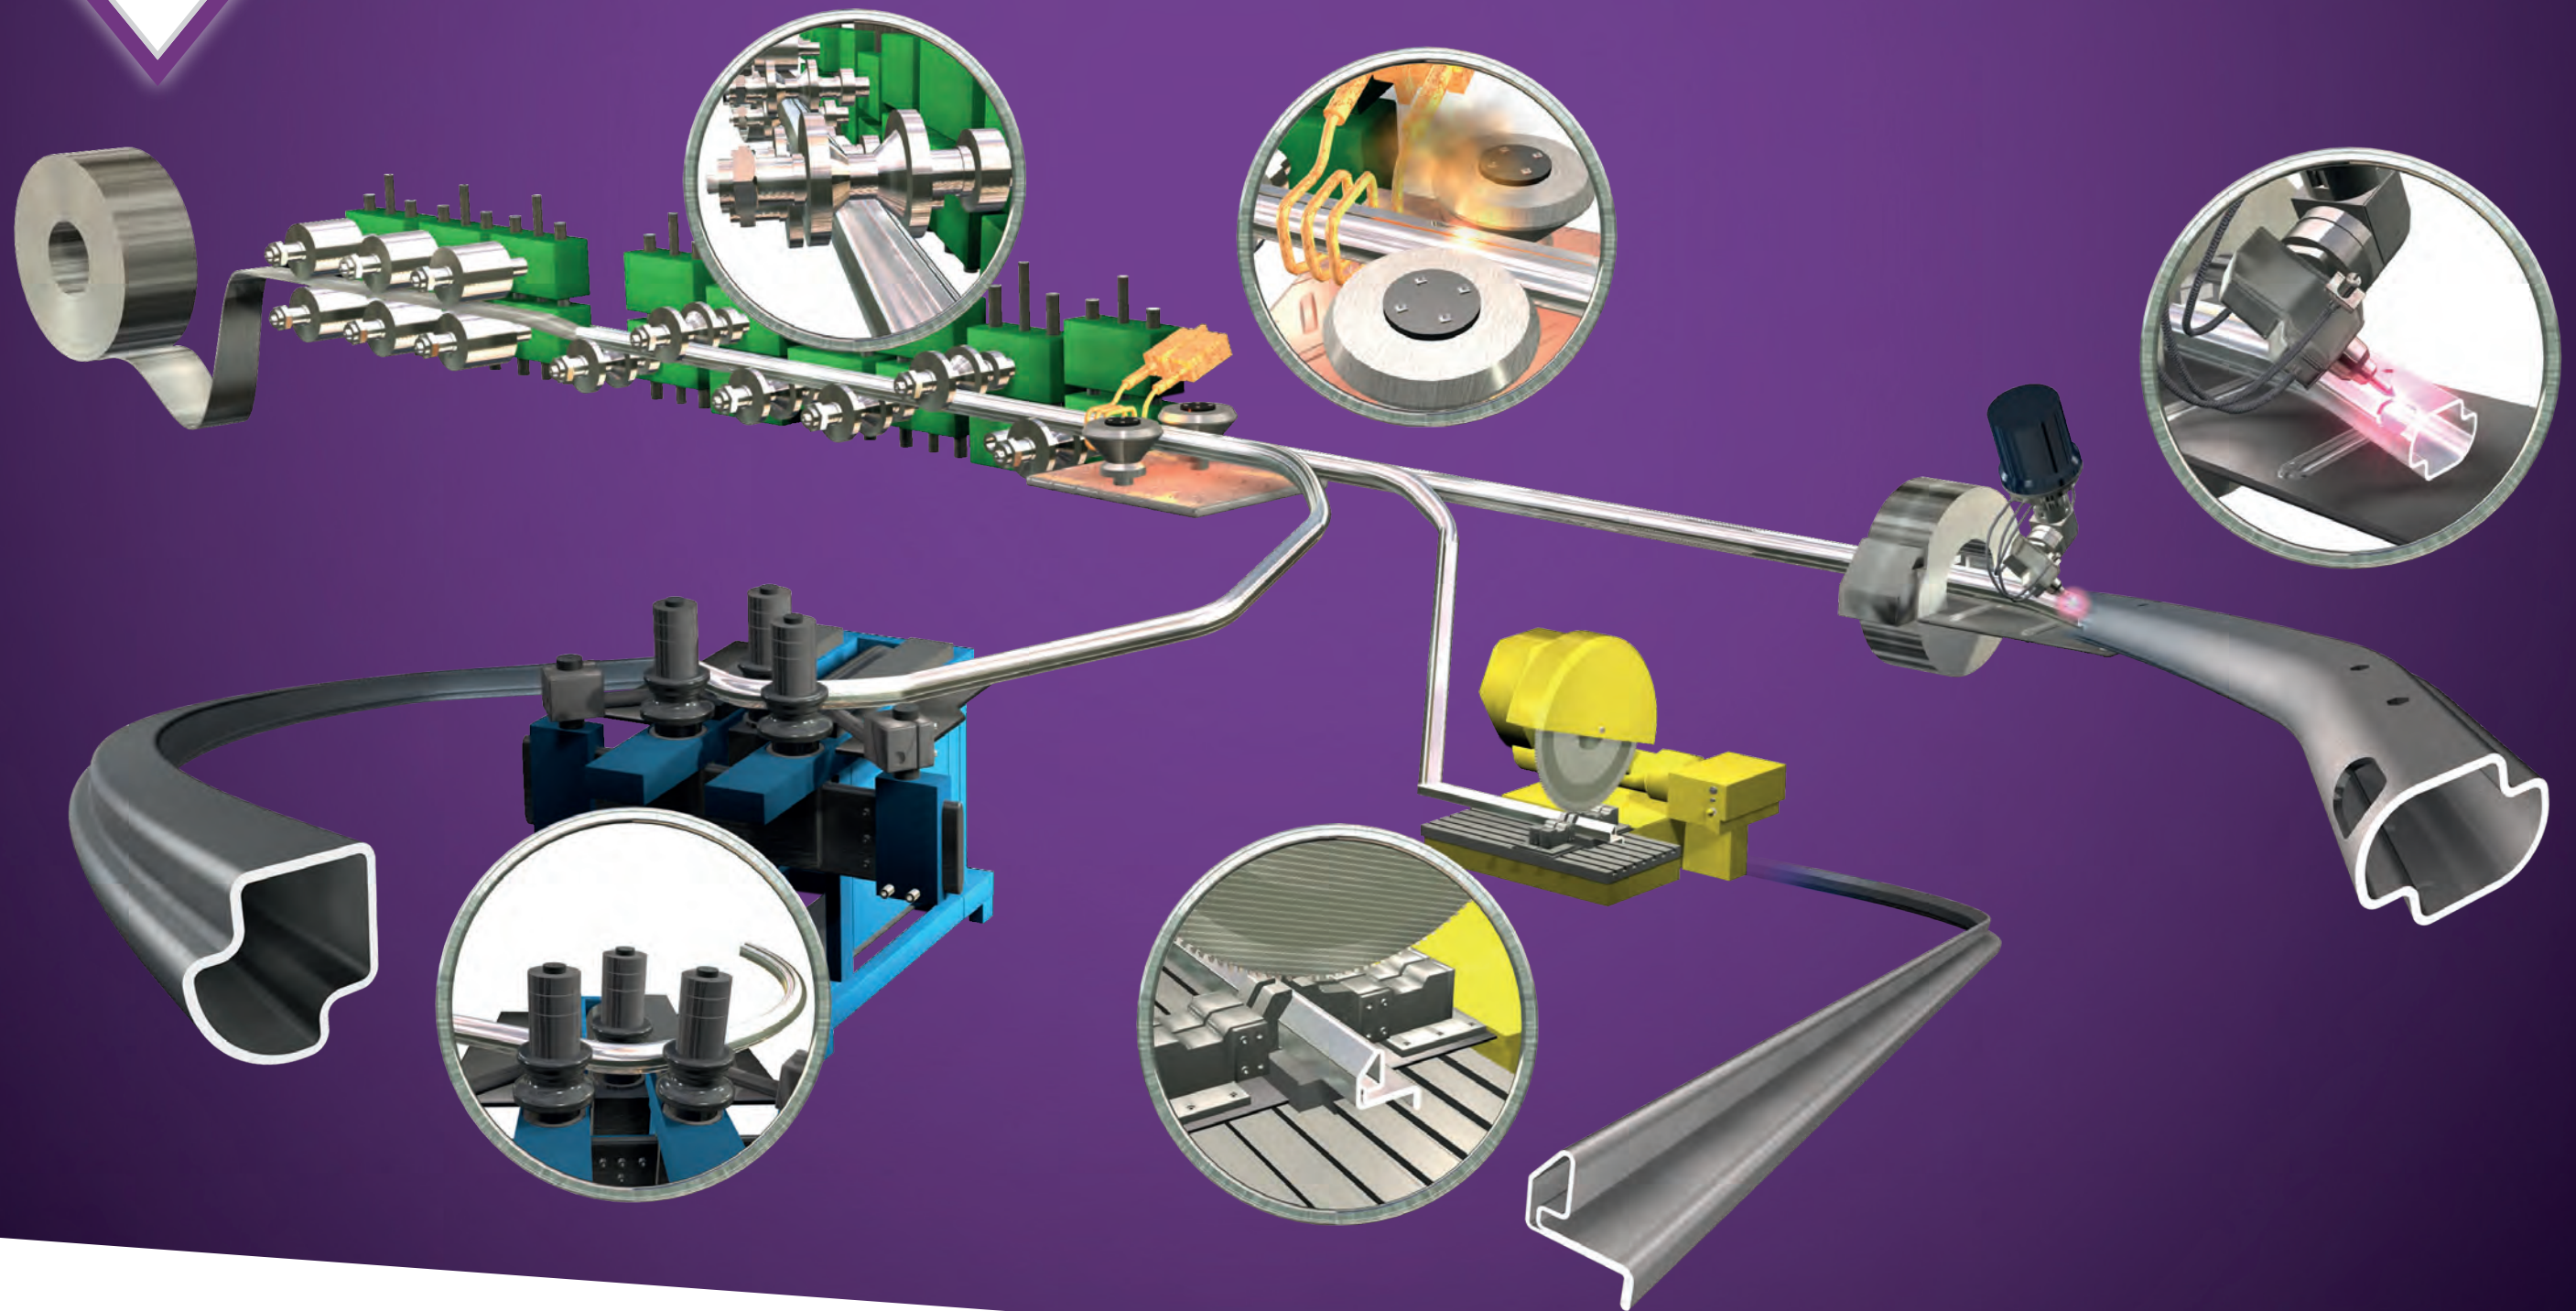

For you, this means:

- Ready-to-install components
- Everything from a single source
- High process reliability
- High degree of flexibility and quick reaction times to design modifications
- Short delivery times

A highly sophisticated manufacturing process.

Our aim is to offer you the optimal solution for your application. We are here to support you from the planning and design stages right through to series production, to help ensure that every aspect of the component has been completely optimised.

We specialise in producing customer specific cold rolled sections for your ROPS / FOPS cab frames. Wherever possible, Welser will condense multiple process steps into one, to ensure every cab frame profile is produced as cost effectively and efficiently as possible.

Greater than the sum of its parts.

Intrinsic to our profiles:

- Stability
- Durability
- Dimensional accuracy – to very tight tolerances

For you this means:

- Safety
- Consistency
- Fast, accurate & repeatable cab building

Whatever your profile requirements; thin-walled, thick-walled, bent or straight, Welser always produces consistently high quality products. We exclusively use high quality steels and we always establish detailed quality plans, including preventative checks and production process sampling. We are happy to provide documented test results for your profile.

In addition to our ISO 9001 & ISO/TS 16949 certifications, we are also successfully certified to DIN EN 15085, and we do hold a variety of other certifications.

The full package of High Tech service.

Intrinsic to our solutions:

- Joint product development
- Powerful simulations
- Fast prototyping
- Advanced logistics
- Storage facilities
- Cost effective and application-optimised packaging
- Guaranteed exclusivity if required

The early involvement of our experts in the planning and creation of your cab frame profiles enables the optimum form & functionality to be combined with cost effective production methods. Individual features can be optimised to allow Welser's ultra-modern in-house tooling to reduce production steps, so minimizing part cost throughout the component life-cycle. Design changes can also be more quickly managed.

More than 2000 employees across the three production plants in Ybbsitz (A), Gresten (A) and Bönen (D), are continually working with our global sales offices to bring the requirements of our international customers successfully to fruition.
